Wonderful Portland

What a Country

GRASS, CALIF., Aug. 7.—This is written on the Cascade, fine Southern Pacific train that runs between Seattle and Los Angeles. In the dining car as I savored a glass of orange juice, a plate of fresh ripe figs, and a very large piece of pink Perkin's mutton, then he began his breakfast—eggs from Petaluma, bacon from Oakland, etc.

Paul Shoup, who runs this road, buys Pacific coast products. The Cascade leaves Portland at 10 p. m. You ride through Oregon until 8 in the morning, then all day, half way through California to San Francisco, arriving at 9 p. m. This is a big country.

If you have energy and ambition, bring them here. You need not be young. You will live a whole natural life after you get here, anyhow.

The Columbia river, that runs by Portland, can supply, with its tributaries, twenty-two million electric horsepower, not practically undeveloped, one-third of the nation's horsepower. The Columbia, with nearly as much water as the Mississippi, floods no land, and affords a deep-water harbor more than 100 miles from its mouth.

The Columbia drains only 250,000 square miles against the Mississippi basin of 1,500,000 square miles. Columbia water, practically undeveloped, one-third of the nation's horsepower. The Columbia, with nearly as much water as the Mississippi, floods no land, and affords a deep-water harbor more than 100 miles from its mouth.

Until recently 10,000,000 cords of wood were wasted in this region every year and 40 per cent of lumber passing through the mills was lost. Sawdust waste was 15 per cent; great forests were built to burn it. Now waste wood is made into fibre boards used for containers and other purposes.

Power and wealth, foundation of industry and wealth, are here. The Columbia carries into the ocean two hundred million acre feet of water a year, enough to cover two hundred million acres one foot deep. The Willamette brings down from the mountains 30,000,000 acre feet.

The gigantic Colorado river, destined under President Hoover's management to do so much for the states within its reach, flows only 15,000,000 acre feet on the average.

On one place on the Columbia, 5,000,000 horsepower can be developed, at another, 10,000,000 horsepower. Some day that energy will be harnessed and used to irrigate every acre of land that needs irrigation and to supply industry with power unlimited. This region could feed, house and employ the nation's 150,000,000 and pay them well.

One great chemical plant at Tacoma, buys power for $21 a year per horsepower, and pays for 2 cents a ton, from public-owned companies.

When, if ever, natural saltness are exhausted, there will remain the giant Pacific with a higher percentage of salt than the Atlantic, receiving more salt than it can hold.

Boats go down the Columbia from Portland under government supervision to fish. They use a seine and bring up from 2000 to 20,000 pounds of salmon and salmon trout at a time.

Farther north at Victoria, British Columbia, salmon are taken from 10 to 40 tons of pikehead, a fine fish, rich in oil. Factorize them the fish into oil for soap and other uses, the residue into fertilizer and feed for the ocean.

Ground fish is fed to cows, grazing far from the ocean. Ground fish is also used as calves from having got. That statement may offend your faith friend, but facts are more important than faith cure.

So, flying in a few hours will bring from the East capital that will change the story as though by magic. Al Fred B. Sloan, Jr., General Manager, Henry Ford, and especially Mr. Farrell, head of United States Steel, should come here without waiting to fly and put some of this wasted northwest power to work.

The development of this country hasn't begun. Its possibilities of wealth and universal prosperity are incalculable. The people some day will regulate their own monopolies, arrange their own wages. There will be power for all, even for the man of exceptional genius. He now demands the right to take more than he needs and give others less than they need.

France and Italy Back Young Plan

GERMANY TO 'DESERVE' RIGHTS

Paris and Rome Representatives Oppose British Demands on Reparations

The Hague, Netherlands, Aug. 7 (AP).—The young reparations plan, which came in for heavy attack by Philip Snowden, British chancellor, at the opening sessions of the reparations conference had two defenders today in the delegates of France and Italy.

Henri Cherax, French finance minister, and Senator Macdoni of Italy, both took the position that the new system of reparations payments and the new schedule of annuities were formulated by the experts at Paris with great care after the greatest difficulties had been overcome.

They must be approved if the present conference wants to get on with its mission of settling the terms of European politics and settling the problems left over by the world war.

Cherax, leader of France had made repeated sacrifices to facilitate a compromise on the reparations problem and had reached a limit he could not pass.

Senator Macdoni, replying to Snowden's speech, declared Italy was receiving under the Young plan exactly what was due her.

GRAF ZEPPELIN OFF TONIGHT, TO SKIRT N. E.

Eckener Seeks to Establish Speed Record in Round-the-World Air Voyage

Lakehurst, N. J., Aug. 7.—Speed will be the primary objective of the Graf Zeppelin when she points her nose into the northeastern skies some time between sundown and midnight tonight.

The huge air liner starting on the Zeppelin round the world flight is expected to head northward along the New England coast then turn seaward and make her first stop in her home port Friedrichshafen, Germany, on the globe circling voyage.

We have proved the stability and safety of our dirigible, we are going to prove our speed, an official said.

It says Eckener's first concern as commander of the ship is to better his previous record of 40 hours for the west to east crossing, Lakehurst to Friedrichshafen.

His child being announced as toward Arctic regions, but weather conditions will make changes in the course as the ship progresses.

HAS NEW SPARK PLUGS
It was learned today that a new set of spark plugs was the only requirement of the five Maybach engines after the trip to Lakehurst.

The only possible immediate danger to the Graf was seen in her

3 Marine Accidents in Boston Harbor

Thousands of commuters were told up, one man was injured in a collision with a schooner, and 22 men aboard went aground in three marine accidents in the harbor today.

The first accident occurred when the freighter Clare of the Bulkhead line of New York, laden with sugar went aground in the middle of the summer at drawbridge over Fort Point channel.

The freighter, bound for the docks of the American Sugar Refining Co., grounded at low tide, and it required an hour and a quarter to free her, with traffic in the harbor held up.

Trolley cars were re-routed from South Boston, with thousands of commuters crisscrossing the harbor, and forth to the bridge, while vehicular traffic was diverted over the Congress St. bridge. Pedestrians were forced to walk around to the Congress bridge.

The second accident occurred when the Coastguard patrol boat 171, with six of the eight members of her crew asleep, was run down and nearly sunk by the auxiliary fishing schooner Marjorie Barker off Minot's Light.

Sharkey Will Take on Tommy Loughran

Jack Sharkey, heavyweight contender, will box Tommy Loughran, retired light heavyweight champion, in New York, in September.

That is the latest shift in the fight made, which was cleared up when the Sharkey-Loughran bout was declared definitely off this morning.

The New York Garden, unwilling to antagonize the boxing commission, decided to call off negotiations off, although the fight had been fixed to go in Detroit, Johnny Buckley, manager of Sharkey, was summoned to New York by William P. Carey of the Garden.

The promoter told Sharkey, over the phone, that he should substitute Loughran for Schmeling, and put the fight on in New York in mid-September, as originally planned. No objections from the Loughran

SOMERVILLE WOMAN SLEW HUSBAND

BEST PRESS AFTER DEED

Tells Police She Slew Husband Because of "Abuse" Calm as She Faces Court

"Because he abused me and the children," Mrs. Angelina R. Bruno calmly shot her husband, Anthony, in the back while he slept in their home in Alpine at Somerville, early today.

Then, as he leaped from bed and struggled with her, she fired two more shots, killing him. Without the slightest trace of emotion she walked from the house, informed a man who was passing that she had killed her husband and asked that the police be notified.

The police, arriving at the home, found her three children grouped about the body of their father and Mrs. Bruno, dressed in her best clothes to accompany them to the station.

MAKES A "CONFESSION"
Her amazing coolness continued at the police station, where she was charged with the murder and held over on the charge.

"I killed him because he was always abusing me and the children," she said. "This morning, he looked at me and said, 'I want to get my boys home, so I unlocked the drawers with the keys from the chest.' When my husband came from work, he found the drawers open. He scolded me."

"I got angry at him and I went at him. He struck me on the face with his fist."

"I said, 'What am I here for, anyway?'"

"He went to bed at 11 o'clock. The girls were nervous and couldn't go to sleep. I sat with them for a while. I said I'd see a lawyer in the morning."

"My husband came upstairs and said, 'Why don't you see that lawyer now?' He told me to come downstairs. I wouldn't. He said, 'I'll drag you down.' Then he went and got his revolver. He said, 'I'll kill you now, then I'll see my lawyer in the morning.'"

"Then he went to bed. He left the gun on the table. I thought for a while, then I went to the bedroom, took the gun, and shot him in the chest. When my husband went to bed, he got up and said, 'I fired two more shots and he fell.'"

Mauretania Making Her Fastest Crossing
The 10,000-ton liner Mauretania is within 24 hours of New York on her fastest crossing of her career. Her skipper doesn't think she will equal or lower the recent speed record set by the German liner Liner Bremen.

"An average speed, which is 27 knots, will probably bring us into New York about 2 and a half hours ahead of the Bremen," said Captain S. G. S. McNeil said.

Passengers Have Hopes of Seeing Polar Bears in Hop Across Siberia

EXCLUSIVE

Famous Commander who will make the Heinkel-Zeppelin flight around the world and report the trip exclusively for the Hearst newspapers.

Lakehurst, N. J., Aug. 7.—When the Graf Zeppelin starts tonight on a historic, making, Heinkel-Zeppelin round-the-world flight, Commander Dr. Hugo Eckener will be something of a Magellan, blazing through the air.

He will travel a route that no man has traveled before. For, we will travel a route that no man has traveled before.

The thrills of the unknown, of exploring the last of the earth, of the hope of a path uncharted, will be added to the commercial venture.

A complete description of the route from the North Pole to Tokyo—our longest "leg" or "stop"—originally contemplated as outlined by me Sunday has been decided upon. And that change brings visions of polar bears and frosty rivers. For, we may skirt the Arctic Circle.

From Friedrichshafen we shall take courses for Berlin, thence northward over east-Franco, possibly Latvia and Estonia, and over the Baltic to the North Pole.

From the North Pole we shall take a course for the North Pole, and then to Tokyo.

From Tokyo we shall take a course for the North Pole, and then to Tokyo.

MILITARY OCCUPATION OF EGYPT ABANDONED BY ENGLAND

NATIVES FREED UNDER NEW TREATY

Britain Will Aid Country to Enter League of Nations

London, Aug. 7.—Broad concessions are given the Egyptians in the new Anglo-Egypt treaty, details of which have just been issued by the foreign office.

Chief among the provisions is that providing for the withdrawal of military occupation except in the event of a rebellion.

The proposals are a great advance on anything hitherto offered as settlement of the Anglo-Egyptian problem, being considered even more favorable than was the draft treaty of 1917 which was rejected by the Egyptian Parliament under the influence of the followers of the nationalist leader, Zaghouel Pasha.

The agreement which Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson has negotiated with the Egyptian Premier, Mohammed Fasha Mahmoud, is a general law followed by the terms of the abortive treaty of two years ago but makes important concessions to Egypt.

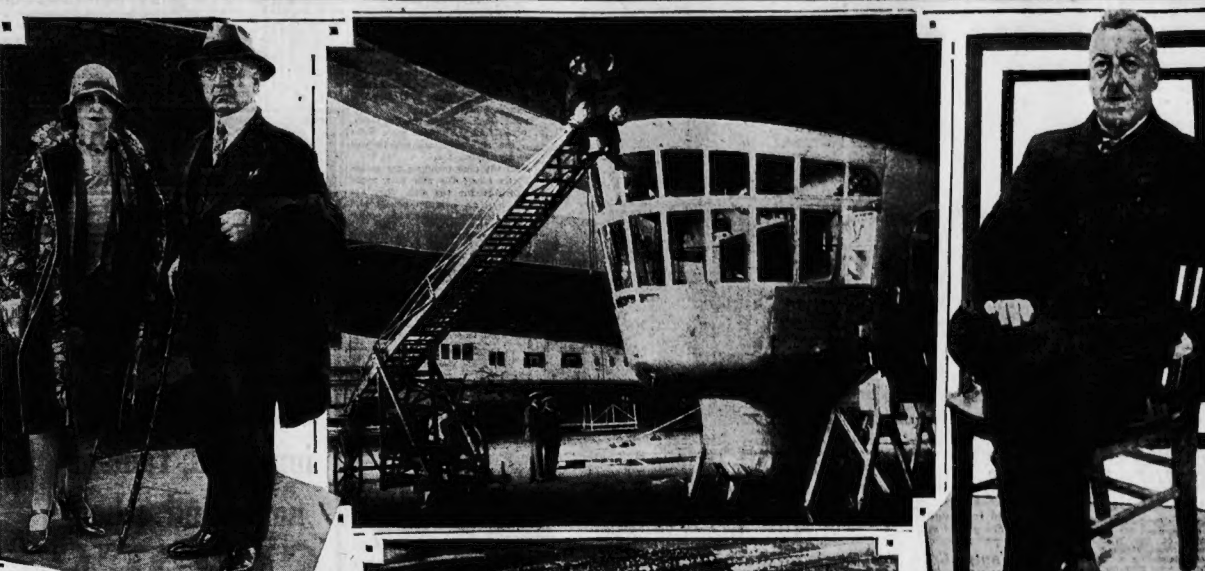

The British government will use its influence to induce other powers to consent to the abolition of the capitulations, or extrajudicial rights, and will assist Egypt to become a member of the League of Nations.

Further, Great Britain recognizes that the protection of minorities in Egypt is a matter devolving solely upon the Egyptian government.

The protection of minorities was one of the four "reserved" points by the British government two years ago, but it is now stated that this will be exclusively the concern of the Egyptian government.

The variations from the Treaty of 1917 will give Egypt a greater measure of self independence than ever before proposed.

Cong. McCormick Finds Deficit in Pie Budget

Congressman John W. McCormick of South Boston has a few embarrassing moments today while eating his lunch at a Newspaper Row restaurant. When the general Congressman was finishing his last bite on a juicy piece of blueberry pie, it suddenly dawned upon him that he was without the necessary funds with which to pay for the repeat. One of course it doesn't look very nice for a Congressman to put a meal "on the cuff," so he looked about for some visible means of rescue. He called Joseph A. Sheehan of the Finance Committee, Joseph Sheehan let himself "bounced" for a new $1 bill.

DEVELOPMENT OF LYNN BASIN APPROVED

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—With the approval of Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of engineering in the War Department, the views of the general board of army engineers for deepening and straightening the Lynn harbor channel, action by Congress alone remains to-day the $1,000,000 project.

The board of engineers for rivers and harbors, which has been reviewing Lynn harbor, recommended a channel 25 feet deep and 300 feet wide from deep water west of Bass Point, Belmont, to a turning basin 500 feet wide at the head of the harbor, but with straightening of the curve in the approach to the turning basin, at an estimated cost of $192,000, with $500,000 annually for maintenance, subject to the approval that local interests give assurances satisfactory to the chief of engineers that the secretary of war that they will dredge and maintain a suitable channel of 25-foot depth, extending a distance of 4800 feet westerly from the inner end of the federal improvement. Gen. Jadwin approves this recommendation and has so informed Representative Dempsey of New York, chairman of the house committee on rivers and harbors. The committee passed a resolution requesting a report from the army engineers as to the desirability of the further improvement of Lynn harbor at this time.

Decision in Holland Case Late Today

Los Angeles, Aug. 7.—Merry for Mrs. Thekla Holland or misery? Today should be the answer, for Dist. Atty. Byron Pitts, who has been making a detailed study of the liquor charges on which the 22-year-old mother-in-law faces the possibility of having her child born behind San Quentin's walls, is expected to announce whether or not he will ask for dismissal of the accusations.

Pitts' study is concerned with the facts of the woman's arrest and whether or not the evidence against her would justify holding the trial that is scheduled to begin before Superior Judge Marshall McComb on Friday morning.

Pitts' study is taking into account that the woman, although charged with possession of a still, has not been shown to have played any active part in the operation of the still or the bootlegging for which she is now in jail.

REINHOLD TOOK BLAME Her sole offense, it is contended, is that she was aware of the fact that her husband was running the still in her home. He took full responsibility.

The young woman, whose child is to be born within a few months, pleaded guilty to the technical charge of complicity, believing she would be given probation. Instead, Superior Judge Emmett Wilson sentenced her to San Quentin, where she would have had her baby had the sentence been carried out. But on the basis of a great outburst of public indignation, Judge Wilson reversed himself, let the woman plead not guilty and she was freed on $1000 bail pending a new trial.

DECISION LATE TODAY Since then, her attorney, Moses C. Davis, argued by strong popular sentiment, has urged that in view of the facts in the case that the woman be released on bail. The next move is up to Pitts, and the district attorney has indicated he will make his decision known late today.

In the meantime, Mrs. Holland, near collapse from the excitement and worry over the case in her present condition, is under the care of a physician and friends at a secluded retreat near the beach.

Every effort is being made to protect her as much as possible from the excitement that surrounds the case, in the hope that she may find some measure of the physical ease which she needs here.

British Strike Near End

Manchester, England, Aug. 7.—The deadlock in the cotton industry has been relieved. Announcement of arbitration is expected which will restore peace before the end of the week.

The stoppage is now in its second week with more than 500,000 operatives idle.

Representatives of the master spinners and manufacturers met and discussed the situation. The result of the meeting was kept secret but it was intimated that arbitration was agreed on and that the operatives are not expected to oppose it.

Meets Sister He Last Saw in 1881

Fall River, Aug. 7.—Separated in London, Eng., in 1881, John F. Gamage, 60, of Fall River, and his sister, Mrs. Mary Gamage, 80, of Fall River, met for the first time in 48 years in this city this morning.

Mrs. Gamage was born in London in 1841 and lived for eight years in Fall River. He came to Fall River in 1881 and has since made his home here.

John F. Gamage was a prominent businessman in Fall River and was a member of the Fall River Chamber of Commerce.

STRANGE MAN SLUGS WOMAN WITH BRICK

Slugging her on the head twice with a sidewalk brick as she lay asleep with her two-year-old daughter, a bushy-haired man of wild appearance fled the home of Mr. Annabelle McPherson, 25, of Joy St., Somerville, after a fierce struggle with her, according to Mrs. McPherson's report to the police.

The young mother, who said she received a sharp blow over the right temple, she was again struck on the back of the head, before she could ward off the blow.

She said before a man clothed only in a suit of underwear, he had a mop of bushy hair, she reported.

Grappling with her assailant she succeeded in knocking the weapon from his hands.

She was struggling with the man she screamed and attracted her mother and brother, who were in the same house, on an upper floor.

Pauline Gralney, her brother, rushed to the apartment, but before he reached her side the attacker had fled through a window.

Patrolmen Charles H. McDevoy and John J. Sheehy arrived at the home after the police were notified and found the woman in a rear yard. An abandoned bed spring against the back yard fence is believed to have been used as a ladder by the fleeing man.

Grace, the two-year-old daughter, was awakened and terrified as she witnessed the struggle between her mother and the intruder.

Mrs. McPherson was taken to the Somerville Hospital where six stitches were taken in two head wounds. She was kept for observation for a possible skull fracture.

Hero Bobs Up After 5 Years; Gets Medal

New York, Aug. 7 (AP)—The bulletin board at the American Church Institute is a sort of international newspaper for the men who follow the sea. So when John Maxim, able seaman, returned from foreign ports he headed there as a matter of course.

Running his eye over the hundreds of items which in brief told strange stories of misadventure and sailing ships, Maxim suddenly was halted by an item of more personal interest.

There is a gold medal in the chairman's office awarded to the man John Maxim if he will call for it," it read.

Maxim went to the chairman's office where he learned he had been named as the hero for almost five years. The medal awarded by King

MARY McLAINE, AUTHOR, DEAD

Chicago, Aug. 7 (AP)—Mary MacLane, a successful author, 35 years ago, died in a lonely room on the fringe of Chicago's blackboard town.

The author of "I, Mary MacLane," "Men Who Have Made Love to Me" and other romantic writings, had virtually disappeared. It was some time after her death before it was realized that the Mary MacLane whose romantic adventures were well known to her readers, was the same woman who had died. Her body was found by the proprietor of the small hotel where she had lived for the last four years. She was found in a room, a lifeless state, was due to natural causes.

Mrs. MacLane's retirement about six years ago was believed to have been caused by a breakdown. She came after the sale of her books had fallen off and financial reverses set in. Her health added to her troubles. She was born in Winnipeg May 2, 1884.

French Schneider Flies Dies in Crash

Bordeaux, France, Aug. 7.—Lieut. Pierre Schneider, 29, of the French army, selected by the Ministry of War to pilot the French entry in the coming Schneider Cup race at Calcutta, England, was killed when his airplane in which he was training for the speed test was crashed into the sea.

Schneider was the holder of the world speed record for land airplanes.

Huge Oil Tank for Lowell Building

Lowell, Aug. 7.—One of the largest oil tanks ever brought to this city arrived here for installation in the J. C. Ayer building on Market st.

A special permit from the State Registry of Motor Vehicles, approving the traffic route from North Down to this city, was necessary for the H. B. Church trucking company of Boston could bring the tank to Lowell.

Forced Landing of 2 Recalls Lindy Flight

Concord, N. H., Aug. 7.—Vernon Johnson of Tulsa, Okla., made an unexpected landing at the Concord Airport with the big biplane Ford monoplane that is touring the country, recalling the premature visit two years ago of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who lost his way in the fog while flying from Boston to Portland and was forced to seek a haven here. Johnson intended port of call was Keene, but a gas shortage and the big biplane's handling there impossible and he came to this city, where he brought his machine to earth without injury.

East Boston Woman Injured by Auto

Annie Ford, 35, of 400 Bremen st., East Boston, was a patient at East Boston Relief Station today after being struck by an automobile in Chelsea st. Her injuries are not serious. John F. Nichols of Rutaw st. was driving the car.

Eight Killed in Clash

London, Aug. 7 (INB)—Eight persons were killed and 20 seriously wounded when striking workers at a jobs mill at Nakhil, India, clashed with police and private guards at the mill, according to a Calcutta dispatch to the Daily Mail today.

Money Values Grow for Lucky Bucks

By WON LUCKY BILL.

Bucks, bucks, who got the bucks? Lots of people have 'em and they are getting 'em. It is for their aliveness when they bring the lucky ones to me at the office of the Boston Evening American. I give my little pep talk to a good effect. In fact I gave yesterday a wide-awake talk to a crowd of Lucky Bucks. But I have a lot of money left. Yet air, $750 in crisp bills is my capital today. So, now, everybody get organized, and cash those Lucky Bucks. Re-circulation today. They are everywhere. Watch the list published here and maybe you will find your self in possession of a Lucky Buck. Charlie A. Rose of Blue Hill Ave., Mettapan, walked into my office bright and early yesterday morning with Lucky Bill No. 25402529. He walked out soon after with 20 new bills. Not a bad day's pay. Mr. Rose works in a shoe store and paid for five gallons of gas with the Lucky Buck. Two bad he didn't know about it.

A lone lady also broke into the bill room. Mrs. J. Nye of Oak Hill Rd., Waltham, came shopping yesterday. She brought home a crisp bill No. 446243829. When she brought it in I gave her a little extra shopping.

William M. Lefford of Beach St., Waverley, was the next one to share

Lucky Buck. He got his as change when he bought some cigars in the community drug store at his home town. He got to be bringing in bill No. 7227841D. Who said smoking isn't good for a man?

Bull No. 23813201D brought $3 to Charles J. Moore of St. Widdowsope. Mr. Madden got his Lucky Buck when he paid his fare down St. Bow's wharf. The cashier gave him the bill in change and it was just "five bucks" at 5 Widdowsope.

Just as I was about to quit for the day, Richard Spears of Aspinwall Ave., Brookline, went in with Lucky Buck No. 211060713. I was glad to pay him the $3 that he called for because it was one of those "rainy day" bills. Mr. Madden had tucked it away for something or other. My night talk at him searching. Now he has four more dollars to add to the next day.

Taking all in all, it was a good day. Now please don't quit on me $750 are still out and I am going to add $10 tomorrow. So go, bring the old bills in and take the new ones out.

Blanchard Begins Safety Duties Today
Springfield, Aug. 7.—Lloyd A. Blanchard, discharged manager of the Springfield Safety Council, will assume duties in Boston today as secretary of the governor's committee on street and highway safety. In recognition of his services in this city, the council has presented him with a set of matched golf clubs, balls and handbags.

$20,000 FIRE IN DOVER THEATER

Dover, N. H., Aug. 7.—Fire of undetermined origin, starting in the Central Park Theater, situated between this city and Somerville, destroyed the structure and caused a loss estimated at $20,000.

Firemen from this city, Somerville and Berwick, were summoned and prevented the spread of the flames to a dance hall nearby.

The members of the Southern Stock Company, who were playing a week's engagement at the theater, lost all their stage costumes and scenery. The theater is owned by the Massachusetts Southern Street Railway Company and its destruction will necessitate the suspension of summer shows here.

Junkpile May Claim Dewey Flagship

Philadelphia, Aug. 7.—Unless Congress passes a measure to preserve it, the Olympia, Dewey's flagship at the battle of Manila Bay, it is said, will be scrapped and sold for junk.

This is the opinion of officials at the Philadelphia navy yard, is the significance of a recommendation to the secretary of the navy from France.

by a board of inspection and survey comprised of six naval officers, headed by Rear Admiral George C. Davis, who inspected the famous cruiser on August 2, at the navy yard. She has rested there in honorable retirement since her last proud job—that of bringing the body of the unknown soldier back to the United States.

Seek New Bridge at Tyngsboro

Lowell, Aug. 7.—County Commissioners are making plans to appeal to the Legislature for an appropriation to erect a new and larger structure to supplant the present Tyngsboro bridge.

Several years ago authorities came to the decision that the present bridge, built many years ago, before the advent of the auto truck was inadequate to accommodate the increased traffic, and as a precautionary measure, decided to post the span and assign officers at either end to warn drivers of the danger.

It estimates says clerks in the police and courteous to customers given to the Somerville Firemen's Relief Association. She further directs that her household effects and furniture be sold and the proceeds given to the Somerville Home for Aged People.

Mrs. Robinson directs that her wedding ring and personal jewelry be buried with her.

At least such a course was proved very profitable in John Albert Young of Somerville, for in the will of Mrs. Manning Robinson of that city, she says that because of his kindness and courtesy in waiting on her, she bequeaths $1000 to him.

Mrs. Robinson directs that her property at 40 Quincy St., Somerville, be sold and the proceeds given to the Somerville Home for Aged People.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

BIG INCREASE PEERLESS ACTIVITY

Increased activity at the Peerless Motor Car Corporation indicates that the new dual management is meeting with marked success from the very outset.

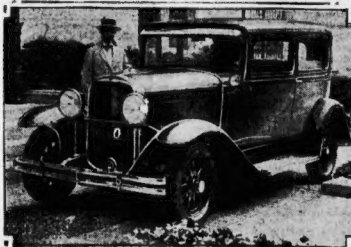

Heading the new management, James A. Bohannon, formerly vice-president of the Marmon Motor Car Company and Don P. Smith, well known in banking and automobile circles, are in joint command of this pioneer Cleveland automobile manufacturing concern.

Smith sponsors the statement that Peerless shipments for July, 1929 were 30 per cent larger than for the corresponding period of the previous year and that there is promise of enormous increase during the coming months.

"Questionably Peerless is attracting some of the country's outstanding producers," says Smith. "Territories that have heretofore been open are being rapidly taken over by good distributors. We are already stepping up production to care for increased orders from our organization in the field."

Bohannon, who is the youngest president of any American motor car manufacturing concern, made an enviable record during his seven years with the Marmon company and is credited with the design and development of the coxswain, Marmon's low-priced, straight-eight which is meeting with much success.

Fire Causes $10,000 Damage at Monson

Monson, Aug. 7.—Fire which started in a storeroom damaged the Noble block on Main st., involving a loss of $10,000. Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Barrett and their six children, who occupied an apartment on the third floor, made their way to the street, although with some difficulty owing to the quantity of smoke.

Jealousy Victim Dies at Hospital

Great Barrington, Aug. 7.—Miss Rose Zucco, who was shot three times at her home in Canaan, Ct., a week ago by John Manigro, a jealous sweetheart, died at the hospital here. Two of the bullets were removed from her body, but the third was lodged too near her heart.

WOMEN HIGHLY INTERESTED IN NEW BUICK

Buick's 1929 line of cars, introduced in a nationwide display, were accorded a tremendous reception at the hands of the American public, as was evidenced by the hundreds of thousands of persons who jammed the Buick salesrooms across the country to get their first glimpse of the "greatest Buick of them all."

Dealers throughout the United States not only reported an unprecedented attendance at the initial showing, but also that sales of the new Buick line had exceeded their highest expectations.

Although the exquisite beauty of the various models held the eyes of thousands of visitors, the longer wheelbase, the steering shock absorber, which does away with all road shock in the steering wheel, the long semi-elliptic springs and double acting hydraulic shock absorbers brought no end of favorable comment.

The new low price schedule announced simultaneously with the introduction of the 1929 Buick line proved most astonishing to the throngs of visitors, who marveled at the extent to which modern production methods, advanced engineering and Buick craftsmanship had gone in providing a better car for less money.

HUPP PISTONS MATCHED IN EACH CAR

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 7.—Most every small boy knows the joy of making a whistle from a willow shoot in the spring. And every small boy who has made such a whistle knows that to obtain the best results and the clearest tone, the willow selected must be straight and free from defects; that the plunger must closely fit the interior of the thin bark; and that there must be no leaks or cracks within his new instrument.

In many ways the cars used in fitting engine pistons at the great Huppable factories is similar to that conceived by the boy making his willow whistle. In the first place the piston material must be free from "all defects" and exactly suited to the use for which it is intended. Hence, a special analysis of gray iron is employed. The coefficient of expansion of the material is similar to that of the cylinder block. In other words, the rate of expansion of both piston and cylinder block is about the same. The advantages of this material include the minimizing of the possibility of scored cylinders, piston rings when the engine is cold, and excessive oil consumption. At the same time this material provides a uniformly longer wear than others. It is thoroughly seasoned to prevent warping and carefully machined.

How Wonderful They Are

Julia Sanderson and her well-known actor husband, Frank Crumit, now as popular over the radio as they are on the stage, are ardent motorists and recently selected this flashy Hudson coupe.

Car for Summer

The convenience of an extra car for the summer months has led many motorists to buy a used car under the Studebaker used car pledge plan, which guarantees certified cars and permits a five day driving trial.

Battery Care Easy

To facilitate care of the battery which needs more frequent inspection during the warm summer months, Studebaker cars are fitted with a special trap door in the floorboards, making the battery readily accessible.

NEW PISTON PIN CARRIED BY OAKLAND

Even so small a thing as a piston pin may play an eventful role in your summer hours because this little device carries a burden out of all proportion to its size, its particular function being to transmit the full force of an explosion from the piston head to the connecting rod.

Not until a new type of piston pin construction was discovered did the problem yield to intensive engineering study. A new principle of pin construction now has been evolved which practically eliminates pin rattles for the lifetime of a car. This involves the pressing of an aluminum plug into each end of the pin. Aluminum, highly resistant to temperature changes, expands under the heat of a running motor and the "swelling" makes the piston pin fit tightly in the piston.

The new method of construction was worked out under the direction of E. H. Anibal, vice-president, in charge of engineering of the Oakland Motor Car Company.

Every Record Smashed— 81,065 De Soto Sixes Sold the First Year!

The Greatest Climb in motor car history

Only a year has passed since the advent of the Chrysler-built De Soto Six. In that twelvemonth, the De Soto Six has broken all previous sales records for any first-year car at any price with the smashing total of 81,065 cars.

Now it is not too rash to prophesy that nothing can stop this car's ascendancy—the greatest climb in all motor car history. Firmly entrenched in popular favor, becoming better and better known with every day, winning new friendships with new owners, De Soto Six is so far ahead of rivals that a continuously triumphant future can be predicted. For the wise will continue to buy where the value is; and there is no other value like De Soto Six!

"This year I'm keeping our old car, as a second car, instead of trading it in."

"MY family is large enough to need two cars. This year I'm going to keep my old car instead of trading it in on the new one. Of course trading it in would make a difference in the cost of the new one. But that's outweighed many times by the convenience a second car will mean to us—and our old car is good for years more."

"I am enlarging my garage to make room for two cars. But that's a good investment in itself because it will increase the value of my property and make it easier to sell."

A used car is unused transportation

General Motors suggests that you keep your old car when you buy a new one. More and more families are doing it each year. That is a reason why the number of two-car families has jumped from 300,000 to over 3,000,000 in ten years. Used cars have years of unused transportation in them; years of satisfactory performance. And the GMAC low-cost plan of purchase makes it easy to pay comfortably for the new car while you enjoy its use.

HARLAN BACK ON STAGE AGAIN

"AFTER ten years," says

"A Kathleen Harrison, a first-class actress, I want to get nearer to my audience. I want to talk to them again across the footlights."
 And that was this mainline idol and screen star says he has returned to the stage. He is playing in person at the New York Theatre today, working in Aaron Hoffman's comedy sketch, "The Honeymoon."
 "Acting in the movies for too long makes one very cold," he continued. You have to do every piece of business over and over again. You get used to the clapper and silence of your audience, and you don't know how to be like, 'I don't want to be cold. I don't want to be cold.' It's everybody over twenty-one. I don't get the flapper crowd."
 He is now doing a comedy in all his roles he takes the part of a woman, and he wonders whether it be over other men or over a woman.
 In his speaking stage that Harrison first built up his reputation he has had some bad leading roles. Now with

BOSTON'S AUGUST FURNITURE SALES ARE ADVENTURES IN GOOD TASTE

How happily timed — the August sales of home furnishings in the great stores of Boston! For now, on the threshold of a new season of indoor living, Boston homes are being transformed into still more delightful spots, and Bostonians are enjoying the adventures of finding expression for their traditional good taste.

If you have not yet caught the spirit of this exciting search for charming home furnishings, plan now to visit several convenient stores where such things are marked considerably below their usual cost. All through this month the price tags are irresistible impulses to brightening up this room, that corner, that dull spot in the house.

The Boston American, recognizing the genuine service that the institution of the August Furniture Sale performs, is urging you in this published message, to at least see what remarkable effects may be obtained through new furniture and home furnishings purchased at this fortunate time.

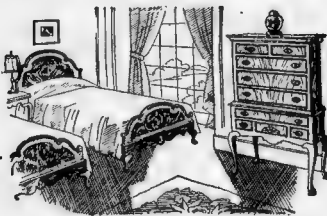

The annual August Furniture Sale is held throughout America by the best stores in every city. As an indication of the respect in which it is held, consider that some stores, as Wanamaker's in Philadelphia and New York, ship furniture to every state in the union, and to several foreign countries, during this month-long celebration.

Prices are appreciably lower during the event. This serves as an added attraction to the new styles in home furnishings, and, as an even greater reason, consider that often one may acquire pieces which, like first editions in books, are produced in limited quantities. Later, as such pieces become universally in demand, mass production methods are forced to retract some of the care and artistry in making.

Surely you have noticed the trend! Alert furniture merchants are "ensemble-conscious" nowadays, and much of their effort is towards the perfectly ensembled room, the complete picture instead of the casual new piece. Look for this fact when you shop for new furniture this month!

The Modern Home Should Suggest Livableness

The masculine appeal in furnishings places definite emphasis upon the comfortable, sturdy style of furniture, of which the English club chair is typical. This is featured in styles to harmonize with the many different types of decoration in the furniture sales at Boston stores.

Furniture for the formal bedroom may be chosen in the four-piece suite, or individual pieces, in Queen Anne or other styles, while the window treatment adds color to the room. There are many values in furniture, and also decorative suggestions, offered in the furniture sales now being held in Boston stores.

The desk and chair are favored as a group for the living room, and are prominent in fall decorating schemes. There are desks of the large, roomy style for formal rooms, and also smaller styles for less formal homes, featured at Boston stores in their furniture sales.

Have You Heard?

That Queen Anne furniture is growing in smart popularity, both because of its comfortable lines and its adaptability to other styles of furniture.

That mirrors are being used extensively in autumn decorating schemes and are usually planned as a definite part of the decorative ensemble.

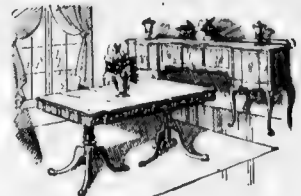

That the group idea is very smart. Two chairs and a table, a chair and a table, a chair and a table, a sofa and other similar arrangements, make for comfort and charm.

That simple treatments of windows, lamp shades and other furnishings has come as a result of the formality in furniture pieces.

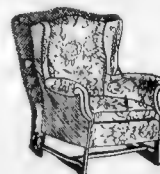

That tables are becoming newly interesting to the small apartment, as well as the larger place, because of the convenience of their size and shape. And two-tier and three-tier tables, of the modern style, are proving surprisingly adaptable.

Individual Pieces and Groups Divide Interest

The return of the lost autumn series of entertaining serves additional interest to furniture for the dining room. The Queen Anne dining room suite is a favorite, and is, of course, the many styles offered in the furniture sales now being held in Boston stores.

The extra chair of congenial yet not identical styling with the living room suite is preferable this season. There are both colorful designs and subdued tones to be had, in styles which harmonize with your particular decorative ideas, in the furniture sales at Boston stores.

A charming air of intimacy and comfort which should be reflected in every corner of the home, may be easily accomplished by the placing of a small table near a sofa or a chair. Coffee tables, end tables and other small pieces are prominently featured by Boston stores in their furniture sales.

Y AND MARINES ARE WARRING OVER BATTLE OF BELLEAU WOOD

SWIMMING ANSWERS ATTACK OF HARBOR

Denies Stealing Glory, but Belittles Achievement of Second Division

The old argument as to "who won the war"—especially that part of it which was fought in and about Belleau Wood—was broken in two today. The chief divisional commander, the 2d Division, and the 1st Division, the 1st Marine Division, are at it again.

The law started when the 2d Division's Leathernecks returned to this country after a visit to their old battlefield. They came back all hot and bothered over their discovery that the 1st was building itself a memorial chapel on Belleau.

Maj. Gen. J. G. Harbord, U. S. A., retired, commander of the Second Division's Marine brigade during the war, took up cudgels in defense of his outfit, speaking for the 1st. Lieut. Col. Carroll J. Bean of Boston gave answer today as follows:

"These Marines think they won the war, and they didn't even have a full division over there. They had only one brigade. All the rest were 'M. P.'s in Paris and elsewhere. They're the greatest bunch of adventurers in the world."

"It is absurd for the 1st to say that we are taking any of the glory away from them. In the first place, we are not erecting a memorial in Belleau Wood. We are erecting one in the town of Belleau near the woods, a town which the 2d Division captured."

"It is true that the Marines were in Belleau Wood. But they didn't advance there. They merely held the line. We relieved the Marines on the 10th of July and held the line until the 18th, when we advanced and took, among other things, the town of Belleau."

"Our division captured that town. The Marines didn't. They were never in the town. We went on for about 15 kilometers."

Capt. Edward C. Fowler of Boston, a retired Marine officer, said:

"While I will not criticize anybody for building a memorial in France, I will uphold Gen. Harbord for his fully justified in his claim that the Second Division took Belleau."

There is to be a memorial in Belleau Wood. It should recognize the fact that the heaviest loss was incurred and the greatest sacrifice made by the Second Division—the 10th and 22d Infantry, the 17th and 18th Marines and the 12th, 13th and 14th Field Artillery.

"It was on the night of July 3, 1918, that the 2d Division came in and relieved the Marine brigade in Belleau Wood. Of course, there was fighting, heavy and desperate fighting after that, but it was beyond the Bois de Belleau."

"We had been there all day long, having come up May 21, and the heaviest part of the fighting was done in the month of June. We entered the northwest corner of the wood about June 18, and the Second Division carried the whole line as far as Bellevue."

"The French government has recognized the part played by the Marines by changing the official name of Bois de Belleau to Bois de la Brigade Marine."

Newton Tax Rate 6th Lowest in Cities

Newton's tax rate of $2.20 in 1928 was the sixth lowest among the 39 cities of the Commonwealth, according to the annual report which has just been made public by the assessing department of the city.

Thirty-two of the cities had higher or lower rates than Newton. The average rate in the 39 cities was $2.50. Newton's rate was $2.20, lower than the average. Chelsea had the highest rate, $4.10, and Hingham had the lowest, $1.10. Newton's tax rate this year has been reduced to $2.25.

DELAY BURIAL OF RIVER VICTIM

Waiting to bury in Potter's field the body of a man drowned in the Charles river several days ago, James E. Finnegan, secretary of the Cambridge Public Welfare Board, appealed again today to newspapers to aid in identification and in locating relatives.

In the hope that the victim might be a war veteran, the welfare board had also took fingerprints and sent them in the War Department at Washington.

"We were prepared to bury him today," said Finnegan, "but when I looked at the body and saw how young a man he was—he was about 30—I felt it a shame to place him in an unknown grave."

There must be relatives somewhere in this vicinity, relatives who believe, perhaps, that he is away, visiting friends or taking a vacation.

If instead holding the body at the city infirmary a few days longer in hope that someone will appear and identify him, so that he may be given a respectable burial."

The only outstanding mark on the body is a scar on the hip.

Mayor Nichols Shows He Knows His Beans

The Texas housewife who appealed to Mayor Nichols for the genuine recipe for Boston baked beans and brown bread certainly started something.

Having recovered from the shock of the request, the Mayor, who comes from old New England stock in the Pine Tree State, says he can bake a pot of beans that would tickle the palate of an epicure.

This is his secret:

Soak the beans overnight. Place them in an earthenware pot in this manner: A layer of beans, a layer of mixed pork, another layer of beans and another of pork, still another layer of beans. Sprinkle each layer sparingly with salt and pepper. When pot is filled, cover with a tablespoonful of molasses and cook slowly.

"When done, you have a thousand beans on your plate that will remind you of the ones your mother used to bake," declared the Mayor with a puff of pride.

Each contributor thoroughly believes his or her recipe has all the secrets linked to a frizzle and competition is growing. It's up to the Bean Editor to give everyone a show, so first comes first served will be the policy.

Patrolman John T. Rimmer of the Lynn police department has wanted to demonstrate that he can do something besides drive a patrol car. John officials say he has at all Lynn police outings and certainly has his beans.

Here's the recipe that Patrolman John challenges any cook in Greater Boston to beat.

Soak one quart of dry beans overnight in water, and in the morning

parboil them for 15 minutes. Then add three-quarters of a pound of salt pork, three tablespoons of molasses, one teaspoonful of salt. Place in an earthenware pot. Cook for at least 10 hours. Serve with catsup.

You'll have the genuine Boston baked beans if you follow that recipe," avers the Lynn policeman.

Mebbe it's the catsup, John Wirth says, anyhow.

There's an elusive "something" in the next recipe, sent in by Mrs. R. H. Scher of the American Housewives' League. Here it is:

One quart of California pea beans, soak all night and drain in morning. Wash thoroughly and place beans in gallon pot. Then add a pound of molasses, one dessert spoonful of dry mustard, 1/2 pound of salt pork. Fill pot with water to within a few inches of top. Cover and bake slowly in oven for 16 or 17 hours. After six hours of baking remove cover.

Whether it's the "generous" cup of molasses or the big fillip of dry mustard that does the trick is open to trial.

Martha Lee, the Boston Evening American Cooking Editor, declares this to be the best recipe for the genuine Boston variety. It goes like this:

Pick over a quart of California pea beans. Wash and soak overnight, bringing care to keep the beans well covered. In the morning parboil the beans, being careful not to make them mushy. A good way to test them is to take one bean and blow on it and if the skin curls up it is all right.

Then place the parboiled beans in a bean pot and put in a very slight amount of salt and a tablespoon full of molasses and cover with hot water. You may put an onion at the bottom of the pot before putting the beans in if you choose, but this is optional. On top of the beans put three-quarters of a pound of mixed or fat salt pork, well scored on the rind.

The beans should be baked about eight hours and enough hot water poured on them from time to time to keep from burning or drying up.

STRIKE OF LONGSHOREMEN MAY EXTEND TO OTHER PORTS

ROCKY MOUNTAIN SAYS COAST GUARD

International Union Official Claims American-Hawaiian Lines Declined to Arbitrate

The strike of union longshoremen against the American-Hawaiian line boats at Commonwealth and Mokka docks may be extended to Portland, Me.; New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Hampton Roads and other ports that this company's ships may visit along the North Atlantic coast, according to William F. Dempsey, a vice-president of the International Longshoremen's Association. Dempsey is chairman of the committee in charge of the present walkout. It has been in communication by telephone with Joseph P. Ryan of New York, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, with a view to settling the machinery of the international in motion to bring about the co-operation of union longshoremen along the coast. They plan to refuse to handle cargo of ships of this company while the strike against the steamer at the port of Boston continues.

The executives of the American-Hawaiian line at Boston have locked our men out. Dempsey asserted. "This is not a strike but a lockout and is a clear cut and out violation of the agreement between the representatives of the steamship agents here and the union. It is an act of defiance to its committee, or arbitration, in the event that the conference fails to adjust any controversy. About a month ago the executives of this line tried to introduce hide carts for unloading work at Commonwealth pier, but our men rebelled."

At a conference held with John Levine, local manager of the steamship company, and representatives of the Harbo, Corporation, afterwards, we agreed to try out the hide carts. In place of the hand carts, if they would put one man on the hide carts until Sunday. Although the stevedores agreed to this proposition, Levine refused to consider it and told us our men would use the equipment designated to them or they would engage others to do the work. To show how the company's representatives here are on having their own way regardless of our written contract, some of our men were working in one of the holds of the Oleana when they were ordered to leave this work unfinished and use the hide carts in unloading the hold work in another hold of the ship, which resulted in their quitting along with the men who refused to handle the hide carts on first morning for work.

"Under the old hand cart method our men took a belt of wool from the slings to the point of departure or discharge. The new method provides for the handling of three or four carts at a time, carrying weight. I doubt very much that the new method would expedite unloading of cargo on account of its many operations and human-overloading character."

Agent Dempsey estimated that about 150 longshoremen and clerks are involved in the walkout at the Commonwealth docks and a similar number, for a time, at the Mystic and Mosco docks in Charlestown.

Chelsea Sailor Hurt in Fall Into Hatch

Fireman-Doctor Does His Stuff

First Aid to Injured Hobby of Fireman

SAFETY ZONE REMOVED

A petition signed by nearly every business man at Upham's Corner, Dorchester, asking for removal of the new safety zone at the car stop in Columbia rd., at Rocky Hill st., was received by the Traffic Commission.

In the petition it was claimed that the safety zone is injuring the retail trade seriously, and has resulted in traffic congestion at that point.

At the same time that they asked for the removal of the safety zone, which is composed of posts linked together with chains on both sides of the car tracks, a delegation of the business men asked Commissioner Fisher to look into the advisability of having parking between Stoughton and Hancock sts.

After receiving the petition, Commissioner Fisher conferred with elevated officials, who asked for two days to look over the situation with a view to locating their stop at some other point.

When he is not attending fire William E. Lannigan, apparatus operator of Engine 35, Broadway, South End, is extending first aid to the needy, whether they be members of the Boston Fire Department or citizens in distress.

"Bill" Lannigan has helped so many people that he is known as "Doc" Lannigan, not only by members of the fire department, but by the men women and children in the vicinity of the engine house.

Lannigan attended a medical school for two years and then learned the rudiments of the medical profession. In addition he carried an advanced course card of American Cross First Aid.

When he responds to a fire he always carries a full medical kit, and on one occasion he saved a man's life from monoxide gas poisoning. On many other occasions his skill was brought into play to help persons who were ill or injured.

Five weeks ago a little child was knocked down by an automobile in front of Engine 35. Lannigan carried her into the engine house and gave her first aid while an ambulance was racing from City Hospital.

Another time he gave first aid to a young woman who had been thrown from an automobile at Washington st. and Broadway.

Still again he saved the life of a barber in a nearby shop from being choked to death. The barber had a convulsion. The false teeth were choking him when somebody thought of Bill Lannigan and notified him.

Lannigan has another hobby—keeping an accurate record of every fire he has responded to for the past 22 years—more than 5000 in number. "I do this for my own personal satisfaction," he said in explanation.

Many times controversies arise with regard to fires and so I am able to turn to my record and settle nearly any questionable point under discussion. I now have three journals filled with facts pertaining to the fires I have responded to."

Sailor Held in $15,000 for Knife Affray

Joseph Leira, 29, of the steamer Mayflower was held in $15,000 for a continued hearing following arraignment in the municipal court on a charge of assault with intent to kill Joseph Fernandez, a seaman.

Leira was arrested following a stabbing affray in which he is alleged to have wounded Fernandez more than 30 times.

Fireman Bernard Feeney, who made the arrest, told the court that Fernandez is not expected to live. The case was continued until Friday.

Fire Lieutenant Still in Bad Shape

Lieut. Daniel W. O'Leary of Ladder 30, injured last Sunday afternoon in the house of Engine 24, Center st. Jamaica Plain, remains in a serious condition at the Boston City Hospital. He suffers a fracture of the skull and other injuries of the head and face when he lost his balance as he jumped for the sliding pole on the second floor. Mining his grasp he clung to the cement floor about 20 feet.

Two Hub Men Held in $15,000 Silk Seizure

Julius Prince, 63, of Hutchins at Roxbury, a Washington st. jeweler, and Benjamin Gold, 53, of 21 Brimley st., Dorchester, a member of the firm of the Chaucery Jewelry Company on Oxford st. South End, are under arrest in connection with the seizure of $15,000 in stolen silk at the second year fair last Saturday.

Frank Weiss of Beverly, partner of Gold, is being sought by the police. His partner told police seeking him that Weiss has left for Europe.

The silk seized at the Chaucery Jewelry Company is part of a bad worth $100,000 stolen by robbers between Paterson and New York, N. J., on July 3.

NOT TRYING TO KILL OFF DOGS, SAYS BIGELOW

State Health Head Explains Effort Is to Minimize Rabies

Dr. George H. Bigelow, state health commissioner, in commenting upon the plea of Wendell P. Thore of Aquantum, to Governor Allen against the enactment of legislation that would reduce the number of dogs in the Commonwealth, emphasized that the health department is not seeking legislation to reduce the number of dogs.

The commissioner declared that the main thing desired by the department is to secure the name of the owner of any dog that is alleged to have bitten someone. In connection with his efforts to minimize in Massachusetts the "continued prevalence" of rabies on the part of dogs, he went on to local boards of health the following letter.

"I am P. Richardson, director of the division of animal industry of the Department of Conservation, and I have been much disturbed at the continued prevalence of rabies throughout the state and at the continued difficulty inherent in the adequate handling of the situation.

"The local animal inspectors, who are under the direction of Mr. Richardson's office, find it sufficient most time-consuming aspects of work is finding the name of the owner of the dog which did the biting. It has occurred to me that in certain instances the local board of health, to which all dog bites must be reported by law, will have information on this important matter."

Women to Have Outing
The annual outing of the William B. Eaton Woman's Relief Corps of Beverly will take place tomorrow at Pleasant Pond Park, Wenhams. Mrs. Geneva Hanson is chairman of committee in charge. A well-arranged program is to be presented.

It is rumored that Lieut. Col. Carroll J. Swan of Brockton, for many years from its inception the commander of the Coast Guard. First, may be in the vice-commander position.

Dr. Claude M. Evans of Andover, for many years State historian, will probably succeed himself in office without opposition.

State Treasurer Ralph J. Bishop of Atlantic, in office since the 1914 convention in 1924, announced this week that he intends to retire from his position in order to serve further because of business demands.

FOOTBALL YEAR-ROUND GAME FOR FANS

THERE'S no bug like a football bug. Enthusiasts for baseball, golf, boxing and other things have their off season; but the football fanatic talks, watches and thinks of his favorite game, and nothing else, for the whole circle of the year. But players go back to the farm, after the season and forget the game. When they are ruled out because of age, they return to the native heath, and baseball knows them no more, save when they appear, at rare intervals, at the annual meetings of football series.

Colliers call it a year when the frost comes, hibernate, and then burst with ferocious zest the first warm spring day, but the football maniacs would attend a meeting on the Common, with the mercury at 110, or in the midst of winter's worst blizzard.

Their game is their life, and everything else is incidental. Which is probably the reason that stadia are overcrowded, no matter how big they build 'em, and tickets sold in price like good utilities, regardless of blacklists and police and everything.

Harvard's Football School

All over the country now famous coaches and players are handing out gridiron instruction at summer schools. And the coaches and old players just flock around. Harvard has its school, and quite an organization it is.

High school pilots from all parts of New England have been attending. So have some of the college mentors, and ex-colleagues who intend to coach later on. Eddie Casey, Jimmy Knox, Eskie Clark and other famous Harvardians make the speeches. Eddie Casey hands out the dope on backfield play, and none knows it better than that Natick wonder.

Clark tells the boys about line plays, while Knox whips them up on strategy, scouting and similar topics. Famous ends and quarters come in and hand out knowledge. And a lot of deeply interested and wildly enthusiastic young men learn a lot and have a whole of a time.

Plenty of machinery has been installed. Plays can be illustrated on boards fitted with lights, which flash as the theoretic players are supposed to shift at various parts of certain formations. Movable athletes flit around electrically on other boards.

It is proved at this school that every perfect offensive football play should score a touchdown. Then a defensive expert shows logically, why every assault should be stopped without the gain of an inch. And between theory and explanation, the young coaches pick up plenty about their game.

Kids Get Golfers Now

Lovers of good golf can find plenty today out at Brae Burn where the juniors start their annual tourney. The kids nowadays play the game just as well as the veterans. In almost every tournament you find a youngster or two holding in where only recognized stars are supposed to appear.

Healy and Slattery, if you recall, went right down to the semi-finals in the Jacques Cup matches, where the state's best selected golfers were playing. One or another kid is always knocking at the championship door.

A great field of youngsters start today, with each member capable of cracking 80 on any kind of a course. Plenty of class, and lots of promise for the future of American golf in the Brae Burn crowd. And the way the youngsters light to come through will give any onlooker an abundance of kick.

Money in Baseball

Attendance at the Cub Park in Chicago has passed the million mark. And Joe McCarthy's league leaders have still to play slightly less than half their home games. Owner Wrigley, who doesn't need it, will make him a million or so in baseball this year. He probably will have world series receipts to toss in with a banner regular take.

Which shows there is plenty of money in baseball, provided the team is present. Wrigley spent money like an alcoholized promoter with an unlimited drawing account. Now he gets it all back, and lots more at one fell swoop. It's a great game, baseball, if an investor has enough at the start.

It's not so good for the boys who try to go along on a shoestring. But then, the small fish don't get the choice morsels in any kind of a modern puddle, so to speak.

Nick-Nacks

The New York Boxing Commission has preserved its dignity, and lost a big fight—One Phil Scott probably will have to swim back to England—Heaney has been declared null and void, which he should have been before he was ever tasted with Tunney—big fight will be in Detroit, best spot in the country for contraband—baseball managers have as many corvées as ring managers, ask Walter Johnson, he knows—in addition, THEY work for their money.

Scorers to Check Junior Golf Players

A-GOLFER ASSURED OF PROTECTION

By BILL GRIMES

IF the plan of the Massachusetts Golf Association, pertaining to a score with each three-some, during the qualifying round of the state junior championship at Brae Burn, today materially improves the position of the contestants, for the "last word" will be in the hands of the scorers.

Although this is the first time scorers have been dispatched with players in a state championship in these parts, it is one of the most progressive steps taken in the history of the game in this state.

Consistent scores with each three-some will be a protection to the contestants, for the "last word" will be in the hands of the scorers.

However, every year there has been considerable gossip spread among the contestants, and the plan of some of the contestants and some of the posted ones.

Jacobs Threatens to Jump to Dempsey

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 7 (AP)—Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, declared here that William F. Carey, head of Madison Square Garden, had denied to him over the long-distance telephone that he had ceased negotiations for Jack Sharkey-Schmeling fight.

A dispatch from New York said that Carey had announced that the bout, set tentatively for September 19 at Detroit, was off indefinitely.

Jacobs, who was in Seattle with Schmeling, issued an ultimatum to Carey that unless he made a formal denial of the statement, Jacobs would turn promotion of the match over to Jack Dempsey.

The German fighter's manager said in that case the bout between the German and the Boston boy would be held in Acacia Caliente, Mex., either on Thanksgiving Day or early in December.

"Carey told me on the telephone," Jacobs asserted, "that he was set to go through with the match in Detroit on either September 19 or 26. Unless I get this matter straightened out tomorrow, I will drop all business dealings with the Garden outfit and open negotiations with Jack Dempsey. Dempsey has offered me more than Carey."

CARRIGANS FAVORED TO WIN BOTH

By JOE CASHEMAN

THE vacation which the Scotts have been enjoying since Sunday ends this afternoon with the arrival of the Washington Senators for a two-game series.

They don't make the natives any more, as might be surmised, for like all ball players they would rather win ball games than loaf, as much as they like to do that, and the Scotts happen to be the one outfit they can beat.

Last year they whipped the Griffins 12 times in 22 starts for their only series win and so far this year they have made their best showing against the visitors.

They lost three games in a row on one occasion for their longest string of consecutive wins in six and are all even with them after 12 contests which is a lot better than they have fared against any other enemy.

So it will be a confidence that they look forward to the games today and tomorrow.

The Carrigans have the luck on their side when facing the Senators, they should have little trouble grabbing off both titles for the Foreway series were it not for the pitching staff of a last place club, as a rule, is no more effective than it is well-oiled than when it is the victim of exhaustion.

"The class is lacking, but Carrigan is an exception," Morris, Ruffing, Russell, McCracken and Coston comprise one of the finest slugs a basement could boast ever loaded.

It is not the fault of this quintet that the Sox are at the bottom. If they appeared to be doing the pitching for the Athletics or Cubs, those two clubs would probably be lost as far in the lead as they are today.

With all this, there is still the fault of the supporting cast and not the Carrigans if the Sox fail to clean up the Senators.

Morris and Russell appear to be the most effective of the bottom line, but neither is likely to start against the Sox, as fit and anxious as they are to work. It is MacPadden's turn today, and Coston's turn tomorrow, and Carrigan's turn the day after.

He does not believe in driving a good pitcher to death to win a game. Carrigan has a second round ball club, he has many managers, he has many pitchers, he has many batters, for the present, he might as well see if he can win it while he is at the bottom.

Perhaps that is why he has such good pitchers.

Smith Denies Liquor Stories

PIRATE STAR CLOUDED

By HORTON SMITH
U. S. North and South and French Professional Champion

DURING my golfing travels, covering more than 20,000 miles since last November, the perennial problem of refreshments and their effects came up for formal discussion more times perhaps than any other topic, save the weather and luck.

While any comment on drinking, or eating for that matter, may seem rather indelicate to sensitive souls, nevertheless that subject is a decidedly interesting one in connection with golf because common report (grossly exaggerating incidentally) that I frequently had it that champagne has been lost and won through so-called "mistakenly" held "entertainment" of the night before.

Most of these whooping rumors, particularly those which reached the public ears during the Ryder Cup team trip abroad last spring and in connection with the recent Canadian tour, turned out to be the boys' say, because I know such stories closely misrepresented facts.

As most golf fans know, I am willing to stand for "liding" over it. I am a teetotaler, some may say, is no long abstinence record when his holder is but twenty-one.

Nevertheless, though "dry" personally and recommending "dryness" to others, I am no crank on that subject nor have I the slightest inclination to force my opinion on others. Indeed some of my closest friends are "wet" and some of them play ex-temperance golf.

Personal "dripping" is stressed so as to assure readers that what I saw during that last golfing journey was observed with clear eyes and fair intelligence.

I know, of course, how dangerous excessive drinking can be in any line of effort. And as anyone in any place would do I was in a position to know if anyone's game went awry because of drinking or other convulsions.

And though, at times, play did go bad for some of us (and include this wanted much drinker) both in Europe, at the U. S. open, and "the" of the boys' said, because I know such stories closely misrepresented facts.

COODMAN LOCUST PLAY

The Coodman A. A. will meet the Locust A. C. at Ashmont playground tonight in the only "pitch" scheduled for the Boston League. The Coodmans have a chance to climb to the 30th mark by a win tonight and put themselves in a position to threaten the first division teams.

The return of Allen at short and Heenan to left field will better the chances of the Coodmans. The absence of Davidson at short will be felt, but his transfer to the St. Ambrose team of the same league will still give the fans a chance to see him in action.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESLER HORTON
"Golf's Greatest Teacher"

As your weight goes over onto your right leg, your left leg should bend inward toward your right knee. If your weight shifts is incorrect, you will get one sign of it if you note the breaking forward of the right foot, which indicates you are letting your right shoulder drop, which is wrong.

Keep your shoulders up, and let your mind you here, again, let me more erect you should in your address. The more erect and naturally your shoulders will keep up, also, the more you drop in the address the more the tendency for the left shoulder to drop as you start back. About the time you begin to "elevate" the club upward, you should be directly on top of your right leg, with your right foot forming a corner, for balance, with the ground on that side. Your weight is not entirely off your left foot, however, I would say it is about 90 per cent on your right foot and 10 per cent on your left at the top.

MR. BOSTON BY JACK CONWAY

"I FIND," said Mr. Boston today, "that the cash customers are quite steamed up over the impending clash of Jim Maloney and Riccardo Bertazzolo, which will be staged by the Boston Garden at Braves Field on next Monday night."

"It is likely that a new record for gate receipts in Boston will be hung up. Jack Sharkey and Jim Maloney drew $36,000 when they collided at the first boxing carnival staged by the Crosscup Fishon Post. This is the mark at which Shammas and the olive skinned Bertazzolo will show at.

"The boys are still arguing over the ending of the last Maloney-Bertazzolo bout. It will be remembered that after the bell checked for the end of the fourth frame James sent a shot to the Italian's chin. This may be perfectly ethical in a rough and tumble battle, but it doesn't go in polite society circles. So Maloney was disqualified."

"It was just beginning to shape up as a rip-roaring battle when the foul was committed. I hope the rival aviators leave their foul blows in their training camp next Monday night and punch it out in regulation fashion."

MR. BOSTON finds that the baseball world at large is rather joyful over the thought that the Athletics seem destined to win the American League pennant.

"The fans have tired of seeing the Yankees come down the home stretch in the lead year after year," said the veteran. "They desire a change and are rooting for the Blacks to maintain their present lead."

"There is still much sentiment in baseball and everybody would like to see Connie Mack get tangled up in another world's series. In such an event I hope he will be more successful than he was in 1911 when the Braves won four in a row from the Athletics."

MR. BOSTON hears that Dan Carroll is at St. Mark's Hospital, Dorchester, with an infected toe; that Charley Harvey, manager of Tom Henney, was seriously injured in an automobile accident at Sheepshead Bay, New York; that Eddie Mack is trying to arrange a match between Honeyboy Finnegan and Jack Zernby, which is a natural; that Battling Nelson was given a whale of a reception when he took his bow at the Mandel-Cannoni boat at Chicago; that Eddie Case is sure to put plenty of life into the Harvard eleven next fall; that Jack Hardwick has a crew of 27 on his patrol yacht; that everything is well open at the Saratoga race meeting; that Frank Brown will become the active head of Madison Square Garden, with Bill Carey as the power behind the scenes; that Kid Chocolate and Al Singer will draw a gate of $200,000 when they clash at the Polo Grounds; that Bill Grimes is going to limit that the newspaper boys count their strokes in the rough at future golf tournaments; that Doc Mooney will oppose this motion; that as a radio announcer Fred Hoys is in a class by himself.

THE junior golf championship this week is certain to produce a plenty of keen competition," said Mr. Boston. "The youngsters have gone on for the links' sport with the same enthusiasm they showed for baseball 15 years ago. What a flock of 70 golfers your Uncle Sam will have a decade from now!"

Metropolitan Driving Club tonight races on the Alton speedway. Eight night saw racing in eight classes, the largest field to turn out since the evening series were introduced. There were several feature performances, but the outstanding race on the program was in Class B trot, in which Cy Young drove Checkers, a new acquisition to his stable, under the wire a winner in two straight heats.

Checkers is honest and good and when they come up near him he responds in good taste, which he showed last night when he was the night's incident. Opening heat in 2:15 1/2 for one of the best times made in the races.

W. J. McDonald's Atlantic Belle, winner of the Class B trot in two straight heats over E. H. Sawyer's Chestnut Dillon, made the double in the first time in 2:12 1/2, and came back to take the winning heat in 2:11 1/2 for the best time for the night's racing.

Big fields turned out in the class F trot and pace and class G trot. John Lovell's Honest Bill winning the first heat and pace class in two straight heats and McDonald's Hollywood Ace outstanding in a field of five in the class G trot in two straight heats.

I LIVE ALL MY MARRIAGE

How Divorces Arise, Told The Blessed Privilege

by 'Love Expert'

ALL these are indications of reaction against casual divorce. But divorce may be likened to the fed of cutting in a dot. When cutting in a printed, any man, much, and from the parties selected and dance with her, whether they are married or not until she is claimed in the same way by another partner. For about twelve months, an object in cutting in, later is to be the object of the parties of marriage. Marriage problems are not solved by running away from them. You divorce from because he gets on your nerves, and marry him you will soon find that, matrimony as hard to escape after. Another divorce and remarriage, the chances are there is a responsibility will disgust you.

In Russia, where the experiment of divorce and remarriage has been given a thorough trial, men and women are beginning to tire of the cutting game. They long for one permanent union, a lasting affection, joy of sacrifice for the sake of home and children.

"She certainly has everything," one man remarked to another, as they noted a woman loaded with jewels in an adjoining box at the opera—a woman notorious for her voice and skill at winning gifts from men.

"She has everything but happiness," the other replied, observing her patient expression, which spoiled her face.

A woman who has been divorced three times confided to me that it is not her first husband she loves, but how to get him back.

The other day a young man of distinguished family, who had married a young wife after a Reno divorce, a well-known screen actor was recommended to his divorcee wife at Hollywood last month.

These are not so ordinary cases. Nearly every day your newspaper reports the marriage of a divorced couple. Heartbreak, separation, reconciliation, bitterness, loneliness, and then the day when they began to leave the past of duty in the old place. They try to run away from human grief, but grief is inevitable. They try to run away from grief, but grief is inevitable. They try to run away from grief, but grief is inevitable.

Each day, things are likely to come very well, indeed. Marriage, however Greek philosophy, devoted that his marriage was a gift, and that his wife was a gift, making him a letter to the world, and that his wife was a gift, making him a letter to the world, and that his wife was a gift, making him a letter to the world.

"All the divorce laws can help marriage. They begin at the wrong end. Some day, perhaps, it will be the general immorality in our country that will make the divorce law a thing of the past. So you see, girls, your fate is in your own hands. The happiness and success of your marriage will depend not on the law, but on your own right mind.

"I wish you would not think of rushing into marriage. Study the good friend who wishes to marry you. Is he the kind of man that would make any woman happy? Could he give you a happy marriage with corruption and partner? Have you a sufficiently agreeable disposition to make any man happy? Could you live in peace together?

"Talk with your mother and an enthusiastic honesty. Listen to your heart, but use your good sense. Health, finances, family background, suitability, character—all these are things that are important in making up your mind over and for all."

Then when you marry, make your marriage a permanent success. In love and devotion, improve your own disposition and ways, not his.

THE most blessed of all privileges which has been granted to us mortals—the rearing of a little child in a home where the parents are united in love and affection. It is a sight that brings tears to the eyes of heaven to listen and adore. The sweet trust and faith and innocence is an inspiration to all who may witness it.

Place a book on the floor and stand on it, holding your neck and spine erect, your arms at your sides, your weight over the balls of your feet. Bend your body to the right, without bending your knees, until your right fingertips touch the floor. At the same time, holding your left arm straight above your head, move the movement by bending to the left and touching your left fingertips to the floor, stretching your right arm straight above your head in the same manner.

Nearly all bending exercises, and there are countless numbers of them—are good for the waist, the shoulders and the spine. They are also good for the lungs and the stomach. In fact, a woman's ability to become a good athlete depends largely on the strength of her abdominal muscles.

Moderate, rather than violent exercise should be your ideal, both before and after meals. If you wish to build up a beautiful, graceful and athletic figure, a middle-aged woman who wishes to tighten up her abdominal muscles should begin slowly, then increase her physical activity as her muscles grow stronger.

The woman who is athletic does not grow fat. She acquires lightness, grace and elegance. She is a woman of spirit and without conscious effort, she is graceful. For the woman who wishes to be beautiful and who has not the necessary physical training and exercise are even more important than facial features. A fashionable costume or clothes that are the cynosure of all eyes are of little value.

This Day in Our History

THE United States and Salvador signed the first treaty for world peace on August 7, 1913. It was ratified by Congress in the same year. The treaty was made to further peaceful relations between the two countries. Little is heard of this nation, but its people are prosperous and industrious.

German Iron Youth Tells of War

"No," I said. "I was beside him. He died at once."

"She pleads with me gently: 'Tell me. You must tell me. I know you want to comfort me, but don't you see, you torment me far more than if you told me the truth?' I cannot bear the uncertainty. Tell me how it was and even though it will be terrible, I will be far better than what I have to think if you don't."

"I will never tell her, she can make mince-meat out of me first. I console her, but she strikes me as rather stupid all the same. Why doesn't she stop worrying? Kemmerich will stay dead whether she knows about it or not."

"When a man has seen so many dead he cannot understand any longer why there should be so much anguish over a single individual. So I say rather impatiently: 'He died immediately. He felt absolutely nothing at all. His face was quite calm.'"

Nothing Sacred

She is silent. Then she says slowly: "Will you swear it?"

"Yes."

"God God, what is there that is sacred to me?—such things change pretty quickly with us."

"Are you with me never to come back to you, if this isn't true?"

"May I never come back if he never killed him?"

"I would swear to anything."

"Telling Tommy"

THE FAMOUS COMPOSER GLUCK HAS BEEN CALLED THE FATHER OF DRAMATIC MUSIC. TOMMY, HE MADE GRAND OPERA SPECTACULAR AS WELL AS MELODIOUS.

GLUCK COMPOSING IN A FIELD.

GLUCK WAS BORN NEAR NUREMBERG, GERMANY IN 1714. HE WAS EDUCATED IN BOHEMIA WHERE HIS FATHER WAS GAME KEEPER FOR PRINCE LOBOWITZ. IT WAS THE PRINCE WHO FIRST INTRODUCED GLUCK AND HIS WORK TO VIENNESE MUSICAL CIRCLES. GLUCK'S FIRST OPERA, 'ARTASERSE' WAS PRODUCED IN MIAMI IN 1741 AND IT MADE HIM FAMOUS THROUGHOUT EUROPE. WHEN HE WAS COMPOSING GLUCK OFTEN HAD A CLAVIER CARRIED TO THE MIDDLE OF A LOVELY FIELD. THE BEAUTIFUL ECHOES OF HIS MUSIC WERE COMPOSED IN THAT MANNER.

But she seems to believe me. She moans and weeps steadily. I have to tell her what it happened. I invent a story and I almost believe it myself.

As I leave she kisses me and gives me a picture of him. In his recruit's uniform he leans on a round rustic table with legs made of birch branches. Behind him a wood is painted on a curtain, and on the table stands a mug of beer.

It is the last evening at home. Everyone is silent. I go to bed early. I seize the pillow, press it against myself and bury my head in it. Who knows if I will ever live in a feather bed again?

Late in the night my mother comes into my room. She thinks I am asleep, and I pretend to be so. To talk to, to stay awake with one another, it is too hard. She lies beside me in the night, although she is in pain and often writhes. At last I can bear it no longer, and pretend I have just wakened up.

"Go and sleep, Mother, you will catch cold here."

"I can sleep enough later," she says.

I sit up. "I don't go straight back to the front, Mother. I have to do four weeks at the training camp. I may come over from there one Sunday, perhaps."

Mother Gives Advice

She is silent. Then she asks gently: "Are you very much afraid?"

"No, Mother."

"I would like to tell you to be on your guard against the women out in France. They are no good."

"Ah! Mother, Mother! You still think I am a child—why can I not put my head in your lap and weep? Why have I always to be strong and self-controlled?"

"I would like to weep and be comforted, too, indeed I am a little more than a child; in the wardrobe still hang my short, boy's trousers—it is such a little time ago, why is it over?"

"Go and sleep, Mother, you will catch cold here."
